

Advanced Project Risk Management

(Course conducted by FICCI in Collaboration with International Institute of Learning Inc.)

May 7-9, 2014
at

Federation House, NEW DELHI

1. COURSE OBJECTIVE

Have you been surprised by unplanned events during your projects? Are you and your project team fire-fighting too often? Well, you are not alone. Uncertainty exists in any and every project environment.

While it may not be possible to predict project outcomes with 100% certainty, you can influence the outcome, avoid many potential risks and be ready to calmly and efficiently respond to unavoidable challenges instead of having to be always reactive and possibly making things worse. With better understanding and proper knowledge, risks can be identified, assessed, planned for and controlled.

The goal of this course is to teach the specific knowledge needed to set up risk management for your projects and to help you implement risk management processes to achieve consistent and predictable results, especially useful in environments where a higher level of risk management is required.
